

Get Your Tile into One Home for Sites

It's fast and easy for your organization to become part of the only industry-wide solution to site tech overload

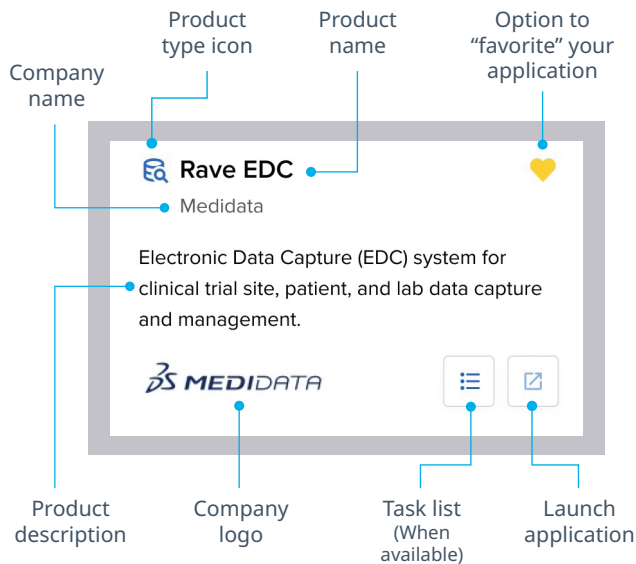

Clinical research sites are pleading for a single sign-on solution across the trials they run. IQVIA Technologies is now offering a way forward for sponsors and vendors to answer sites' calls for help. Please join us!

IQVIA One Home for Sites is a vendor-neutral, sponsor-neutral platform that aggregates the key systems a site needs to use. When you "get your tile" into One Home, you're building up the library of systems available to sites for single sign-on and task management across their trials. And it's free for sites to use and tech vendors to join.

What is a tile in One Home?

For sites using One Home, linking to the tech platforms they need is as easy as finding the application's tile in the One Home SSO System Library.

Anatomy of a tile

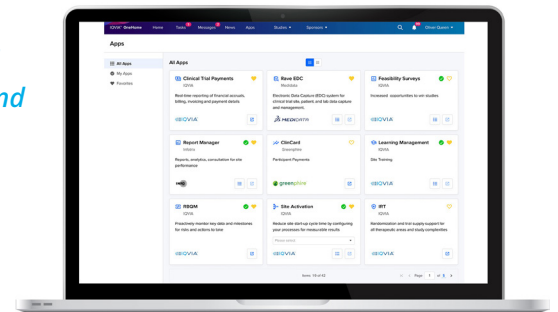

What is the process to add a tile to One Home?

Tech vendors can achieve SSO and get their tile into One Home in just a few days, building critical mass quickly. Further integrations to affiliate studies to users and send tasks to One Home add even more value to sites.

- STEP 1 Single Sign-On
 - Enable basic availability of a tech vendor or sponsor system
 - Users can log in to your application with One Home SSO
- STEP 2A System Affiliation
 - Provide high-level authorization context
 - Users see specific applications to which they have verified access
- STEP 2B Study Affiliation
 - Expand authorization context to specific studies
 - Users see applications with verified access on authorized studies
- STEP 3 Tasks
 - Send tasks from affiliated product to One Home
 - Users see a prioritized to-do list in their dashboard and can take action

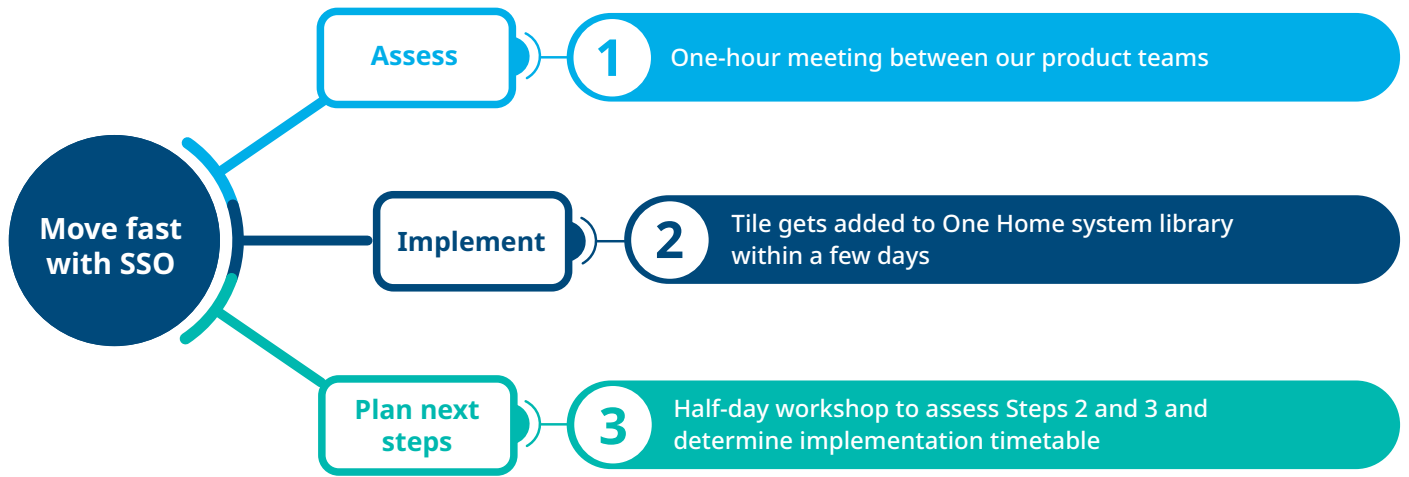

Sponsors and vendors get their tiles into One Home SSO System Library upon completion of Step 1.
