

IQVIA Forecasting

Streamline financial management of clinical trials

Effective forecasting is crucial for ensuring timely payments, maintaining site relationships, and managing trial budgets efficiently. IQVIA's Clinical Trial Payments Forecasting solution offers an advanced approach to managing and predicting site payments, ensuring accuracy, compliance, and efficiency across global clinical trials. Our technology-enabled service provides real-time projections and consistent methodologies, ensuring financial transparency and efficient budget management. Add IQVIA Forecasting to your Clinical Trial Payments solution to leverage our global expertise to navigate the complexities of payments with ease.

Your forecasting challenges

-  Resource-intensive process to manually track and project study-related expenses
-  Limited forecast frequency and precision
-  Non-scalable for complex trials

Our solution

Real-time projections

IQVIA Forecasting provides ongoing actuals and projections until the study is closed, allowing for real-time adjustments.

Automated forecasting

A consistent process with automation provides similar reporting across all studies, ensuring a standardized approach to forecasting.

Better management of clinical trial finances

Enables better financial management with global portfolio visibility and robust forecasting capabilities.

Reduced burden on clinical operations

Forecast Analysts collaborate with Study Project teams to set up cost assumptions and help monitor outcomes, leveraging human expertise and technology for consistent methodology.

Just-in-time funding

Minimizes the need for investigator payments to be funded upfront for the entire trial, reducing capital impact.

Elimination of site overpayment

Reduces site over-payments due to complex amendments, budget structures, and contracting.

IQVIA's Clinical Trial Payments Forecasting solutions provide real-time projections, consistent methodology, and detailed reporting to manage clinical trial finances effectively. By leveraging IQVIA's expertise and technology, trial sponsors can reduce the burden on clinical operations, minimize the need for upfront funding of investigator payments, and improve overall budget management and planning. These solutions enable better financial transparency and site satisfaction, positioning companies for successful clinical trial execution in a challenging and evolving environment.

Optimize your clinical trial payments with IQVIA's Forecasting solution.

Contact us today to schedule a demo and learn how our technology can streamline your financial management processes.

CONTACT US

OrchestrateYourTrials@iqvia.com
iqvia.com/ClinicalTrialPayments